Dear Parents,

I hope you have all had a good week. All of the classes have been continuing to work hard and try their best, showing our school values as they do.

The teachers and I have been busy sorting out our reading books across the school to ensure that they are in an acceptable condition, as sadly some had clearly seen better days. On the topic of reading books, as I am sure you can all appreciate, our school levelled reading books are very expensive. If you do lose one or damage a school reading book, we would really appreciate a donation towards its replacement.

The library is looking fabulous, huge thanks to Lisa Walker for her continued hard work and commitment as our school librarian, and a huge thanks to the donation from the Cold Aston Summer Fair committee for their donation to the PTFA which was spent on the new books! The children are truly enjoying them and the library is always a buzz of activity, particularly on book swap day! Having a book that is purely for reading for pleasure is so important. Thank you also to all our community readers that come in every week giving up their time to help our readers improve their fluency, they all attended training out of the kindness of their hearts to ensure that they are supporting our children as best they can and continue to come into school on a weekly basis to listen to readers from throughout the school.

On the topic of reading, I mentioned in our reading newsletter back in spring term that we will be having a reading for pleasure partnership with another school from somewhere else around the world. We have been informed that our partner school is in Jamaica, and Mrs Hibell will be having a video call with the school in the next few weeks!

Reminders:

Please ensure your child brings a coat into school everyday

Please make sure your child brings a water bottle into school daily

If your child brings in a sun hat into school, please ensure that it is named.

I hope you all have a great weekend,

Mrs Hibell
